MOTION TO CONSOLIDATE

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42(a) and TBMP § 511, Applicant/Registrant Dropbox, Inc. (“Dropbox”) moves for an order consolidating Opposition No. 91219070 with Cancellation No. 92058621. At this early period in both proceedings, consolidation is the far more efficient and logical approach.¹

The Board may consolidate multiple actions where the actions involve common questions of fact and law. Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a); TBMP § 511. In determining whether to consolidate cases, the Board weighs the savings in time, effort and expense which may be gained from consolidation against any prejudice or inconvenience which may be caused thereby. TBMP § 511.

Both of the proceedings at issue here involve common questions of fact and law because determination of the parties’ respective rights hinges on the same questions: (i) which party owns superior rights to the mark DROPBOX and (ii) whether there is a likelihood of confusion. Furthermore, the two proceedings involve the same parties and the same trademark. In both proceedings, Opposer/Petitioner Thru Inc., citing its pending application Serial No. 85475272, is challenging Dropbox's registration of its DROPBOX mark.

If these cases are not consolidated, the parties will have to take and enter repetitive testimony and evidence in separate cases, file repetitive sets of briefs, and prepare for and attend separate hearings on similar issues. Consequently, the Board would have to waste its efforts reviewing the same record, reading repetitive briefs and preparing for duplicative hearings. On the other hand, consolidation of the cases would result in a significant savings of time and expense for both parties, since each party would be taking and entering testimony only once, filing only one set of briefs, and preparing for and attending only one hearing. Consolidation would therefore prevent a wasteful duplication of effort and would render benefits to the Board in terms of judicial economy. Furthermore, neither party will be prejudiced by consolidation.

Dropbox therefore respectfully requests that the Board grant its motion to consolidate Opposition No. 91219070 with Cancellation No. 92058621 and reset dates for the consolidated proceeding by adopting the dates as set forth in the Board's Order dated October 28, 2014 in the opposition proceeding. See TBMP § 511.

Opposer/Petitioner has consented to consolidation of these proceedings.
